

The New 2006 Newsletter from AMBYESE!

Our visit to Praxair

By Jessica Brewington

“On Thursday August 17, the Y.E.S. I Can students went to Praxair Electronics. The people at Praxair had goodies waiting for us and once we got what we wanted we sat down, we ate and listened to the speaker on what he had to say about Praxair. He showed us a short slide show on the company that included a fun fact: If you go into the rooms where they make the specialized chips, you have to wear a special suit to cover yourself because if a dust particle lands on the chip then it will ruin the whole thing!” Read the rest of her article by going to our website (link below) and clicking on the “Meet our Students” link! <http://www.ambyese.org>

Reflection on the Relevance of the Praxair Fieldtrip and my Summer Experience at the Materials Camp

By Madiya Aziz

“I found our field trip to Praxair to be very educational and at the same time interesting. After attending MATERIALS CAMP last year I felt that I was very familiar with all the equipment that the tour guides were showing us, because at camp we used similar tools to conduct our failure analysis. Ultimately, this field trip helped me see that my experiences at MATERIALS CAMP were parallel to what Praxair does as a company; thus, making me feel that my experiences at camp were not simply a simulation, because they were very relative to real life scenarios.”

Read the rest of our student reflections by going to our website (link below) and clicking on the

“Meet our Students” link! <http://www.ambyese.org>

Madiya Aziz, Dr. Paul Schaefer, and Paige Pavone at Praxair's New York Facility

Praxair's Materials Camp 2006

By Paige Pavone

“It was the morning of August 7, 2006 and I was about to board an airplane. My mother was not holding my hand and my father was not holding my luggage. I had said good-bye to family, New York, summer laziness, and youth's proclivity towards dependence – they were not on the packing list for Materials Camp in Cleveland, Ohio.”

Read the rest of her article by going to our website (link below) and clicking on the “Meet our Students” link! <http://www.ambyese.org>

Also visit our “links” page at <http://www.ambyese.org> to find useful information and advice about scholarships, financial aid, and various college programs.

Enjoy!